STRENGTH & CONDITIONING

Weekly strength and conditioning sessions with Nick Buchan Golf is a physically demanding game that requires explosive power, but at the same time, incredible precision and complexity. During the swing, the average male recruits about 30 pounds of muscle and uses nearly every part of the body to produce 2,000 pounds of force in less than 0.2 seconds.

Research has found a relationship between:

- Strength and driving distance and accuracy
- Lower body power and total driving stats
- Core stability and injury prevention
- Aerobic capacity and chip shot efficacy and putting average
